

Chazara Clark-Smith is the current President of the FEW Foundation for Education and training. She began her tenure with the Foundation in January of 2013. Chazara has been a member of FEW since 2009, and currently serves as the Executive Vice President and Legislative Committee Chair for the New Carrollton Chapter. Since transferring to the NC Chapter, Chazara has been active at all levels of the FEW organization. She has represented the Chapter during DC Metro Regional Board Meetings, attended Regional Training Programs, served on the National FEW Advocacy Day Planning Committee, was a volunteer at the 2011 National Training Program (NTP), and presented during the 2013 NTP.

Chazara is as an IT Specialist in the Information Technology business unit within the Department of Treasury. Previously, Chazara worked as a Project Manager in Real Estate and Facilities Management. She has served on the Headquarter's Measures Task Force, organized to identify and develop measurement and analysis tools to monitor and manage the strategic objectives of the business unit nationwide. She was also selected as the Project Management subject matter expert for the REFM Lean Six Sigma Team.

Chazara graduated Magna Cum Laude from Howard University with a Bachelor's of Business Administration in International Business and minors in Marketing and Japanese. Prior to joining the Federal Government, Chazara worked as an Executive Assistant and Program Analyst for the Chief Operating Officer of Detroit Public Schools. As an Army wife, she also served as a Company-level Family Readiness Group (FRG) Leader and Army Family Action Plan (AFAP) Facilitator at both the Installation and Command levels.